

Harry filled the barrel, and Gus clamped the motor to a block of wood in the vise so that its propeller was in the water. Then he poured fuel in the tank and pulled the starting cord

