

"If any of the things I say are loose turn out to be tight," announced Gus, as he began to hoist the noisy engine out of its frame with the portable crane, "I'll do the rest of the job at half price."