

Instead of answering at once, Gus examined the bench . . . then he picked through a box under it and found a piece of scrap metal that held his interest